

Holds Special Term Of Circuit Court

BAD CHECK PASSER TO MAKE GOOD TO CITIZENS. ROBBER GOES TO PRISON.

Judge John C. Shaffer of Gladwin, held a special session of circuit court here last week Friday for the arraignment and sentence of several persons awaiting in the county jail.

J. A. Light of Flint, a lumber jobber, charged with passing worthless checks, totalling about $1,000, was released in custody of his attorney, upon his promise to make restitution. He had been arrested about 3 weeks ago by state police in East Tawas and as a number of the checks had been passed in Grayling, he was brought to Grayling for arraignment. Light claimed that he has sold a quantity of lumber and had issued the checks in anticipation of receiving his money, but that he did not receive his pay as he had expected.

Frank Bowering, 48, of Kalkaska, pleaded guilty to a charge of entering in the day time. He was sentenced to nine months to four years in the State Prison of Southern Michigan, and was taken there by Sheriff Papendick Monday.

The case of Alfred DeFrain, arrested on a moral charge, was placed on probation for one year.

GET YOUR NEW PLATES

Thousands of motor vehicle owners will be unable to drive their cars on Michigan highways and streets after Thursday, Aug. 31, unless they get busy this week and secure Michigan 1939 license plates to replace the half-year plates issued earlier in the year, states Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State. The deadline is Aug. 31. Motor vehicles laws of the state do not permit any official to postpone this deadline.

It is estimated on Aug. 25 that 325,000 motor vehicles in Michigan are still operating under half-year license plates which will be outlawed by Sept. 1. It behooves every motorist so operating to visit the nearest branch office of the Department of State and obtain the full year plates and get them on his car at once. These will be good until March 1, 1940.

Tells Kiwanians What Enrollees Think

CLUB SPONSORING ELECTION EMIL GIEGLING LT. GOVERNOR.

The program at the Kiwanis luncheon Wednesday was in the hands of Mr. Nolan, the educational advisor of CCC Camp Higgins. An unusual number of absentees, by not being present, missed a most interesting talk by Enrollee Alvin Calkins. Camp Commander James F. McIntosh also was present.

Planning to attend the annual state Kiwanis convention at Charlevoix Thursday, Friday and Saturday occupied much of the club discussions. President Moore, Vice President Farnham Matson and Secretary Roy Trudgeon are the official delegates. They intend to leave here Friday morning and will remain to Saturday evening.

The club members feel that Grayling club should provide the lieutenant governor next year, and it is obvious that Emil Giegling would be the unanimous choice of the local club. Only Traverse City and Gaylord clubs are older than Grayling, while Cadillac and Manistee have been organized only a couple of years. Grayling and Manistee clubs are the only ones in the 8th district that have never had a lieutenant governor. It is believed that Mr. Giegling's candidacy will meet with general favor among the delegates of the other clubs in the district.

Mr. Nolan gave a resume of the activities of his department. Young men of the camp are provided with opportunity along many lines; are provided excellent library facilities, and with vocational training. About 60% of the enrollees take advantage of this opportunity for getting an education.

Alvin Calkins has been in CCC camps for about four years. He told of his experiences in camp life from the first day he entered. Success of an enrollee depends principally upon himself. He is provided with good quarters, good food, is trained in responsibility, integrity, etiquette, industry, besides is privileged to improve his education. Calkins appears to be enthusiastic over camp life. He paid a high compliment to the camp in which he is at present enrolled. He is studying for the ministry and we believe he would be well fitted for that profession. He gave a good talk and was given undivided attention, and made an excellent impression on his audience.

Next week's program will be in the hands of the delegates to the state convention, when resumes of the convention will be given.

Labor Day

Flyers Club Enjoy First Banquet

It would be hard to conceive a more enthusiastic group than that which gathered at Shoppensons Inn last week Thursday evening to enjoy the Grayling Flyers Club's first get-together and banquet. Nearly fifty, including guests, were present. In the afternoon there was a baseball game between member teams, at the Military reservation.

Featuring the program were Col. Floyd E. Evans, director of the Michigan Board of Aeronautics, and Orrin W. Kaye, district supervisor of the National Youth administration.

The club consists of 40 members, with Hilton Axford as instructor. Sgt. Verne Dagen, of the Michigan State Police, is president; Clyde Peterson, vice president; and Fritz Heath, secretary-treasurer. President Dagen acted as toastmaster, and introduced the guests and the speakers.

Mr. Kaye is a newspaper correspondent of many years experience. Much of this time was spent in Germany, Russia and other countries. He has had a close acquaintance with Adolph Hitler, beginning before the latter became the fuhrer of Germany. Much of his time in late years has been spent in Washington. He is an enthusiastic flier, and has been a leader in the organizing and conducting of ground schools in aviation.

Among the Flyers club members is what they call the "Boners Club." Fake badges were presented the new members of the latter group, inscribed with the nature of the offense. This brought out a lot of merriment. When fellows like R. A. Wright, Farnham Matson, "Chuck" McNamara, Billy Mosher and others forget to fill the transmission, turn on the gas, smash tail parts, bump into the hangar entrance, and a lot of other foolish things, it's fun for the other fellows who have not as yet qualified for membership in the "Boners Club."

Col. Evans, who did so much toward organizing the local club, praised the members for the fine record they have made. Grayling club is one of the most successful and enterprising in the state. The members are enthusiastically in earnest and the morale is of the highest standard. Instructor Hilton Axford is doing a grand job here and deserves much credit for the excellent progress the club has made.

Among those who spoke, besides Col. Evans and Mr. Kaye, were Mr. Axford, City Manager Geo. Granger, and club secretary-treasurer Fritz Heath.

Justice Sentences Three To Jail

PETTY LARCENY AND DISORDERLY CONDUCT CHARGED.

Justice Hans Petersen dealt out a number of jail sentences last week. Two were charges of disorderly conduct and one for petty larceny for which three are now serving time.

Paul Ostrander, 28 and Clinton Bancroft, 25, were angered when refused welfare aid by the local welfare department, and proceeded to break up the furniture and partitions. They had been laid off and, according to Mrs. Laura Olson, local welfare administrator, no orders could be issued to them until after a certain time limit. Both were sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Herman Johnson, 50, of Maple Forest, pleaded guilty to a charge of petty larceny and was sentenced to 30 days in jail. He was charged with taking a sum of money from the home of Arthur Howse.

Grayling Participated In Alma Festival

Grayling, through its Chamber of Commerce, participated in the parade at the Harvest Festival in Alma Thursday. The float which depicted Grayling Winter Sports, was attractive with pretty lassies seated upon it, among whom were Queen Frances Entsminger, and two members of her court, Gloria LaMotte and Hazel Wilkins. Other girls were Jane Ann Martin, Jane Milnes, and Nelle Kerry Welsh. Mrs. Stanley Stealy, chairman of last winter's Queen committee, chaperoned the young ladies and Mayor George Burke was there to extend a glad hand to folks of Alma and tell them all about our winter sports.

At noon Queen Frances and her attendants were guests at luncheon of Queen Thelma Hahn who was reigning over the Alma festival.

As there is a large farming population around Alma, there was a large crowd witnessed the parade, and so it is felt was very worth while as an advertising feature and the many new friendships formed are bound to help Grayling.

The Chamber of Commerce also sponsored a float at the Trout festival in Kalkaska last spring and it won first prize, and they took in the Cherry festival at Traverse City in July.

MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH

A large audience listened to a men's chorus last Sunday. Grayling people will be glad to learn that this chorus, with additional voices, will be heard again next Sunday.

10:00 a. m.—Junior Church.

11:00 a. m.—Morning Worship.

State Fair Featuring Agricultural Exhibits

The 1939 Michigan State Fair will firmly establish in the minds of everyone that this fair is primarily an agricultural fair. Entries are of record proportions. Applications for stalls for horses and cattle have run far ahead of all previous years. The same is true regarding pens for swine, sheep and poultry.

It is evident that the promises made by Dr. Linwood W. Snow, general manager, that this year's fair would be a real agricultural fair has had its effect, not only outstate but throughout the nation. A report handed to Dr. Snow early this week by Harry Kelley, director of live stock, showed that in every department, the entries far exceeded those of last year.

A comparison of the 1938 and the 1939 entries shows the following increase:

	1938	1939
Horses	188	245
Beef Cattle	320 head	468 head
Dairy Cattle	500	740
Sheep	1,200	1,436
Swine	595	625
Poultry

1,243 single birds
Single birds 1,855

The entry coming the greatest distance is that of the Russell Farms at Lake Charles, La., which is sending 11 head of short-horn beef cattle. Mrs. Victoria Dreyfus of Brewster, N. Y., is bringing 11 head of Percheron horses of her own and one belonging to Elizabeth Douglas of Tilly Foster, N. Y.

This indicates that from the Atlantic to the Gulf at least the Michigan State Fair has been established in the minds of the breeders as an outstanding live stock fair of the nation.

In the other departments, agriculture, horticulture, floriculture and women's arts the same story is apparent. Record entries have been made in the women's department alone. Needle-work and cooking, baking as well as dress designing are all drawing their full share of entries. The women's speed crocheting contest, which was inaugurated at the fair last year, has been adopted nationally so that those who will compete this year will be sharing in national prizes.

However, none of the other features of the fair that have found favor in the past will not be curtailed.

There will be farm machinery exhibits, harness racing, a rodeo, and a grand array of famous stars of the radio and screen present daily.

The Coliseum will be turned over to the judging of the live-stock on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Wednesday will be the day when the annual auction of the prize winning stock will be held.

Trying to Be Happy
"Some people," said Uncle Eben, "works so hard tryin' to be happy dat dey couldn't be happy no how."

Postoffice Mural Depicts Early History

IS WORK OF WELL KNOWN ARTIST.

A mural painting, depicting the early lumbering days of Grayling, has been finished and is now adorning the west wall of the post office. It's area is 12 feet by 5 feet and covers approximately 56 square feet.

The painting is on canvas and shows views of many early lumbering operations. In the foreground are men sawing a log, others are loading some on a dolly and a dummy locomotive hauling a load is seen in the background. Everything about the picture denotes bigness—big men, big tools and big operations. In the lower right hand corner is a picture of Shoppensons, who had much in common with the development and operations of the timber and lumber activities in and about Grayling. In his hand he is holding a grayling, a native fish of the AuSable rivers, after which Grayling was named.

The canvas is cemented to the wall with a special adhesive. The medium employed in its execution, according to Robert L. Lepper, artist, who made the painting, is an emulsion of egg varnish and water with which the colors are ground. These are in turn glazed with oil colors. The method is one employed by Italian and Flemish masters and antedates oil painting. It is a method with a history of great permanence and is less subject to darkening with time than those paintings executed in oil only.

The operation for the work was spread over a period of 10 months; the actual work of painting took two months. The material for the subject matter employed in the mural was gathered on a visit by Mr. Lepper to Grayling last September, in talks with the city's leading citizens.

The Artist.

It may be interesting to the people of Grayling to know something about the artist who executed the mural, which is now a permanent fixture in our post office and our city. Robert L. Lepper is assistant professor in the department of painting and design at the Carnegie Institute of Technology, of Pittsburgh, Pa. He has taught there for the past nine years.

He is a graduate of Carnegie Tech. and studied and traveled in Europe. He executed murals in the post office at Jeannette, Pennsylvania from the design of the late T. Frank Olson. He designed and executed a mural for the post office at Caldwell, Ohio last year. His paintings have been exhibited at Pittsburgh, Chicago Art Institute and other galleries.

May I take this opportunity to express my thanks to the citizens of Grayling for the generous spirit with which I was received and for the perfect cooperation and courtesy extended me by all those with whom I came in contact. I am especially grateful to James McDonnell, the postmaster, who went out of his way on many occasions to offer me every assistance.

MR. AND MRS. ESBERN HANSON DINNER HOSTS

At their summer home at Lake Margrethe, Mr. and Mrs. Esbern Hanson entertained twenty-eight of their friends at a dinner of beautiful appointments on Tuesday evening.

A profusion of garden flowers made an attractive setting for the dinner which was followed by contract. Mrs. C. G. Clippert and Mr. O. P. Schumann held the high scores. Mr. H. W. Wolff received the door prize.

ENTERTAIN WITH SCAVENGER HUNT

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Borchers and Mr. and Mrs. George Granger entertained eleven couples at a weenie roast and scavenger hunt Sunday evening.

The crowd drove down to the pullover on the AuSable at supper time and enjoyed weenies and all the trimmings, returning to the Borchers home where the hunt started. Mrs. Adolph Peterson and William Heric won prizes for gathering all articles named and returning to the Borchers home the soonest. Dessert and coffee were enjoyed after the hunt, closing a very enjoyable affair.

LOOKS LIKE A BIG TIME!

A number of friends of F. C. Burden, of Detroit and Grayling, see to it that each year they give deserved consideration to the former's birthday. Next Sunday is the big day, but the gang isn't waiting so long and will arrive Friday, and will remain to Tuesday.

"F. C." says he is all set and will see to it that there is plenty to eat and drink, and Mrs. Burden will move right out so as not to be in the way.

Among those guests coming are: C. G. Gould, Col. E. G. Heckel, E. R. Hasse, Glenn Robins, F. P. Harvey, and Richard Koehler. For the past nine years this group has been together upon the occasion of Mr. Burden's birthday. We are sure this occasion will be thrilling, for "F. C." is a grand host and knows how to give his friends a good time.

"Well, goo'-by, Mother, an' I promise I won't be late if Flash can walk part way with me. He doesn't want to stay in that hot ol' doghouse all day, and you and Dad don't pay no attention to him."

"C'mon, Flash, you don't have to hurry so much. It's me that gotta stay in school all day, but you don't care. Just remember you won't be havin' a gay ol' time, either. You go walkin' alone and go swimmin' alone, an' see how you like that. Then you won't be in such a hurry."

"Gee, Flash, why do boys have to go to school? There's a lotta things more important than readin' and all that stuff. Anyway, ol' pal, you'll miss me. In the daytime flowers give off oxygen and absorb carbon dioxide, but at night this process is reversed. Because of this many people have believed that flowers and plants are dangerous in one's bedroom at night. The truth is, however, that the amount of oxygen absorbed by a plant is so small that no possible harm could result. Likewise, the carbon dioxide given off is negligible. An ordinary lamp flame would produce more carbon dioxide than a good-sized oak tree. In hospitals flowers are not removed from the wards at night unless by request of the patients.

Mackinac Island, Mich.—What's "wrong" with Mackinac Island?

Here is an enchantingly lovely isle in the Straits between the lower and upper peninsulas, proclaimed by the Daughters of the American Revolution to be "Michigan's most historic spot."

Its past parallels the founding of the United States. In 1671 Father Marquette established a Catholic mission of St. Ignace at what is now St. Ignace. Long before 1700 the French built frontier forts at St. Ignace and Mackinaw City, retaining control there until their disastrous defeat at Quebec in 1759 at the hands of the British. In 1763 the Ordway Indians, inspired by crafty Pontiac, massacred the inhabitants of Fort Michilimackinaw through a ruse of playing a ball game.

In 1760 the British moved Fort Michilimackinaw from Mackinaw City to Mackinac Island, and Canadian border disputes kept the island under the British flag until October, 1796, when Fort Mackinac was turned over to the first American commander. This transfer was the final incident of the Revolutionary war. For nearly 100 years, up to 1895, the fort was manned by regular army troops of the United States.

Talk about history! Such, in a nutshell, is a glimpse of the glorious and stirring background of Mackinac Island. Yet for a decade the island has been declining as a place for summer residence. Only a few weeks ago Gov. Luren D. Dickinson suggested that the governor's cottage there be closed permanently.

With all this rugged history behind it, why should Mackinac Island have fewer summer residents than it had ten or twenty years ago? Intent on fathoming the reasons, we spent a week-end at the Fort as a guest of the state park commission, following a tourist conference at the Grand Hotel. Here is what we observed.

Facts About the Island

But first, a picture of the island itself.

In March, 1895, Michigan's senator James McMillan put through Congress an act authorizing the secretary of war, upon application of the governor of Michigan, to turn over to the state "for use as a state park, and for no other purpose," the military reservation and buildings and the national park lands.

The legislature created a commission, consisting of five members who serve without pay, to administer the park.

The park contains 1,041 acres of which 500 are covered with hardwood and 400 with spruce, hemlock, cedar and other soft woods. There are 40 miles of roads, 60 miles of trails and paths, and a boulevard which follows the encircling shoreline for a distance of nearly nine miles.

On a rocky hill, reaching an elevation of 200 feet above the Straits, is Fort Mackinac (original) and Fort Holmes (a reconstruction).

Isolation, Pro and Con

Consider the geographic factor of isolation. The results are both good and bad.

Because the island is constantly "air-conditioned" by breezes coming over the waters of the Great Lakes, Mackinac Island has long been a summer haven for hay fever sufferers and a refuge from excessive heat. However, these virtues cannot be claimed exclusively by Mackinac Island; many other spots in Michigan possess climatical benefits of equal degree.

Then there is the little matter of mosquitoes. The island boasts, apparently without contradiction, that it is devoid entirely of the insect pest.

Before the advent of the automobile and hard-roads, transportation to northern Michigan and Mackinac Island was mostly by lake boats. Travelers from the East came by way of Buffalo, Cleveland, Toledo or Detroit; from the Middle-West via Chicago.

Tourist travel then was not mobile. The family stayed for the summer, or at least for the whole vacation period.

Today, the average tourist travels in his own car. He parks his machine at either Mackinaw City or St. Ignace or puts it in a garage; he boards a steamer or a speedboat, 75 cents round-trip; on the island he hires a horse-drawn carriage to get his party and their baggage to a hotel or their cottage. This takes both time and money.

What Can You Do?

Consider next the island's recreational facilities.

If you can afford a sailboat or a horse, the island would probably keep you contented as a well-filled kitten for weeks on end. The waters of the Straits are ideal for sailing; a yacht club offers every desired service. Luke Bernuda, Mackinac Island exclusive automobiles, and 40 miles of roads await the equestrian; no honking of horns, screeching of brakes, and carbon monoxide fumes. But yachting and horse-back riding costs money, too.

If you like to golf, the island has a scenic course at the Grand Hotel. The grounds fee is $1.65.

Because the water at the Straits is uniformly cool (remember the big ice jam there last winter?) outdoor bathing is limited to a hotel pool the waters of which were being warmed artificially early in August. Lacking is the familiar sand beach at most Michigan resorts where youngsters and oldsters alike may relax, sun-bathe, or swim at their heart's content and usually without cost.

If you are content to dote a pair of boots, swing a staff, and hike over miles of shaded wood land trails, Mackinac Island is superb.

A motion picture house in the town offers current cinemas for 40 cents. For fishing, you must travel elsewhere. Fishing and entertainment are available at the smart Grand Hotel for a cover charge. Prices are comparable with those in the best night clubs, and the entertainment is astonishingly excellent (and also clean) when you consider the distance from Chicago or Detroit. (This is not press-agency; we paid our own bill.)

Automobile-Age

In this speed-craze age of automobile, Mackinac Island is one place in Michigan that has defied mechanical modernization.

No automobiles!

Such is the restriction imposed by the town council with the moral support of island summer residents and the state park commission. The chief source of livelihood for year-round residents comes from carriage fares. Proprietors of most business shops, and we presume all hotels, live elsewhere except during the summer season.

A carriage ride for any minimum distance costs 50 cents.

Except for bicycles, horses provide the only means of transportation.

Harvey Campbell, Detroit Board of Commerce, thinks the island is destined to have a continued decline in tourist trade largely because, as he colorfully phrased it, "the island rests on a manure-dump." He deplores the swarms of flies. His remedy is the Detroit-made sightseeing bus, used at the New York and San Francisco world's fairs, with fares at popular prices.

Sentimental lovers of Mackinac Island rise in wrath at the idea. A chugging, noisy bus would ruin the island's tranquility. It would create hazards. Preposterous!

"Why put scores of townspeople on relief?" countered a member of the state commission. "Carriages provide their only means of earning a living. And what's the hurry, anyway?"

We present the situation as it is, without personal bias. Certainly, this island paradise for horses is unique today in the United States. And in all places—Michigan, home of motor transportation!

New Tourist Habits

Times have changed, and so have tourists' habits. Each year the traffic count at the Straits goes up.

More and more the modern traveler, like a gypsy, takes to the open highway, lured by the fascination of new scenic conquests yet to be made.

In his trail have sprung up overnight cabins. During the past year at St. Ignace more than 80 new overnight cabins have been built. At Sault Ste. Marie the cabin facilities have been doubled in the same time. Then the house trailer is becoming a factor also. At Michilimackinaw state park, adjoining Mackinaw City, 450 more trailers were accommodated there up to Aug. 1 of this year than in the same period last year.

Where the great American family formerly stayed put in one spot, such as Mackinac Island, for a vacation season, now it is "on the go." Gasoline stations, barbecue stands, overnight cabins, hot-dog stands and the like are reaping a harvest. National park officials report the greatest attendance this year in history.

As all of these tourist facilities may be obtained at reasonable prices, today's traveler is economy-minded. He has a mental conception that Mackinac Island is a place which only the well-to-do can afford. This belief is seemingly shared by Governor Dickinson who preferred to rent a private cottage on a lake in southern Michigan than to use the state-owned cottage at Mackinac Island, reserved by the legislature for use of the governor as a summer residence. Maybe his reasons were that he preferred fishing. In a press conference he said he couldn't afford to go to Mackinac Island, clinching the point with a comment that it had cost him $15 a day, back in 1927, to stay at a hotel on the island during a conference of state governors.

What It Costs

On the matter of expenses, what does it cost the state to maintain Mackinac Island state park and Michilimackinaw state park at Mackinaw City?

From Superintendent Ladd's park records we learned that the state received $10,800.72 in revenue last year (ending June 30, 1939) and spent $38,000, making a net expense of around $27,000. In 1931 receipts totaled $13,656; they were $16,499 in 1936 and $12,065 in 1937. House leases for use of state land brought $5,470 last year; carriage concessions, $643; stable concessions, $200; camping and trailer fees at Michilimackinaw state park, $2,238.

Up to this year the legislature had usually provided $500 a year for upkeep of the governor's cottage which is a simple white frame dwelling with a spacious porch overlooking the Straits, a large living room with a fireplace, and all suitably furnished in a manner to be found in thousands of summer homes everywhere. Governor Dickinson vetoed this expenditure for 1939-40. Occupants furnish their own food; the state provides water, electricity and laundering of linens and bedsheets.

The commission employs six year-round workers and nine others during only the season.

Future of the Island

What is "wrong" with Mackinac Island? What can be done to restore its former popularity?

As perhaps the greatest shrine of history in the entire Middle-West and certainly in Michigan, Mackinac Island will probably always continue to draw thousands of visitors. It will always be included in the itinerary of lake steamers. For scenic lure, if for no other, the island will be a leading summer magnet.

According to two members of the state commission, the island suffers from a misconception that it is expensive for tourists as based on prevalent prices elsewhere for cabins, meals and the like. The fact that overnight accommodations may be obtained for as low as $1, that meal prices are as reasonable as similar accommodations elsewhere—these facts are not known, or at least not believed. In any event the public feels that such accommodations are very limited in number.

Furthermore, friends of the island agree that Mackinac needs skillful state advertising, if it is to compete with other states whose scenic wonders have been brought within easy access to millions in the Middle-West by modern automobiles and modern highways. They believe such would benefit the entire state, and the very fact that Michigan comprises two peninsulas and that the island is between them bears out this conclusion somewhat convincingly.

Perhaps low-cost recreation could be provided—shuffle-board courts, for example, or an open-air dancing pavilion—which would appeal to people in a moderate income bracket and yet not convert the island into a "Coney Island."

In any event, Mackinac Island is well worth a minimum of a full day's visit. Once there you will surely leave with a hope that you can return again soon.

Dragon's Blood From Rattan Palm

Dragon's blood is a red-colored resin derived from the fruit of a rattan palm. It is used to color varnishes and lacquers. The bright red facing on Chinese writing paper is generally made from this so-called dragon's blood, which enters commerce as dark red, flaky crystals. It is one of the leading exports of Java. Much of it goes to the United States.

THREE KINDS OF TAXES—The government collects taxes (1) on wealth, (2) for special benefits, and (3) to control forces in the public interest. The rich man pays more taxes on his house or his income because he has greater ability to pay than the wage earner. Water rates and gasoline taxes are examples of the second type of taxes. The more water used, or the more gasoline consumed in driving on the highways, the greater the benefits received, and the greater the taxes. Tariffs exemptify the third type. Tariffs usually are levied to protect American workmen from competition of low-standard labor abroad.

What condition is your roof in? It would be just too bad if you awakened in the middle of the night some time, and think your bed was a lifeboat? You'd probably offer a silent prayer that your roof had been of Bird Roofing.

New Traffic Laws

From State Police Department

(Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of ten articles, prepared by the Michigan State Police, highlighting Michigan's new traffic law which becomes effective Sept. 29. Important changes have been made in customary driving habits. Greater safety and fewer traffic arrests will result from a close study of these articles).

SPEED LIMITS

The legal speed limit under Michigan's new traffic law is 25 miles per hour in both business and residential districts. It was formerly 15 miles per hour in business districts and 20 miles per hour in the residential districts.

Local authorities may establish higher speed limits in either business or residential districts. In no case may such limits be less than 25 miles per hour.

All highways on which the limit is set in excess of 25 miles an hour must be designated as through highways and adequate signs posted informing the motorist of the permissible speed. Entrances to such highways, the Michigan State Police point out, must be posted with stop signs.

Within cities and villages the state highway commissioner may increase speed limits on state highways outside of business districts. Adequate signs will inform motorists of such limits in excess of 25 miles per hour.

Signs are not necessary in business or residential districts except where the limit is in excess of 25 miles per hour. Motorists driving on unmarked streets in either business or residential districts are subject to the 25 mile per hour limitation.

On the open road outside the limits of cities and villages, a safe and prudent speed is lawful. The new law, however, in the case of vehicles towing other vehicles or trailers, set a definite speed limit of 50 miles per hour. This applies especially to house trailers.

Speed regulations of this act are based on recommendations of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, and puts Michigan in step with other states in a uniform traffic code.

This temporary set-up proved so successful that the public demanded guide service again, and as a result, guides were increased.

Through curiosity and requests, two of the guides instituted a register last year. At the close of the park season it showed over 18,000 signatures. This register was kept at the logging camp and due to the long walk (over 1/2 mile) the estimated figure to sign was one out of every four. Both the park attendance and the register for the season of 1939 is expected to double last year's figure. At the present time both the attendance of the park and the register are living up to expectations.

Due to the lack of publicity in the various newspapers throughout the State, preferably in the southern part, this park is known and recommended to others only by those who have already been here and seen the beauty themselves. This park would furnish good copy for any paper, and the scenery would delight the heart of any photographer.

Due to this, we hereby extend our invitation to all papers in the State to come and see for themselves and enlighten those in their community who have not heard and would like to see the Pines.

We will have at a later date a statistical report on the attendance in general, from various states and foreign countries and the full total on the register.

Rodeo Stars at Michigan State Fair

ESTELLE BUTLER AND RALPH CLARK, two of the featured stars of the N. Y. World's Fair "Cavalcade of Centaurs", looking over the corral and chutes with Alice Adams, a bronc rider at the Michigan State Fair, where they are to compete with 250 other riders. The rode is to be but one of the great outdoor attractions, which also include horse racing, at the greatest agricultural fair that Michigan has ever had.

Deer Food Habits Reveal Life Story in Examination

To learn why deer in the north woods are fat and in good condition during the fall hunting season and thin and weak in the late winter, the stomachs of 22 deer killed in the fall and 52 killed in late winter were collected and the contents analyzed by the Biological Survey. These examinations revealed that 45 plant species were eaten during the fall and only 25 in the winter.

Although evergreens, including balsam, fir, pine, white cedar, and spruce, formed only a little over one-fourth of the fall diet, they composed almost three-fourths of late winter feed. White cedar, the most valuable of the deer browse species, increased only 3 per cent in the winter diet, the greatest bulk being derived from balsam and pine. Willows and poplars formed 29 per cent of the fall diet but decreased to less than 4 per cent of the late winter diet. Species of the heath, honeysuckle, and birch families were minor items of diet during both periods.

Emperor of America

Joshua Abraham Norton, an English Jew, landed in San Francisco in November, 1849. At that time he was nearly 30 years old. In less than two months he had established himself as a merchant and became very successful. In 1853, however, his property was destroyed by fire. He disappeared for a short time and when next seen bore the title "Norton I, Emperor of the United States of America." This, according to a public announcement which he caused to be printed and placarded throughout the city, had been "duly conferred" upon him by the state legislature. Later, when Mexico "beseeched" him to rule because she "longed for his strong government and wisdom," he added "Protector of Mexico." He died early in January, 1880.

Roman Pathway in Sussex

Another bit of detail to the already large accumulation of relics showing the extent of Roman culture in rural Britain was the discovery of a tiled pathway on Wiggonholt manor by S. E. Winbolt, who writes to the Times of London about it. "It was traced for 27 feet north-south, was four feet wide and eight inches thick, laid on and bound together with yellow clay. The surface, remarkably level though slightly damaged by the plow, was consistently only eight inches down. No wall was found, but the ground to the south has enough tile on the surface, and here and there lumps of Pulborough stone, to make it highly probable that remains of a building giving a meaning to the path are near by."

Lightning and Thunder

Lightning and thunder are simultaneous, but lightning, particularly the kind designated "heat" lightning, may occur so far away from the observer that the thunder is not audible; on the other hand, the lightning and the thunder occur simultaneously. If the lightning is at any distance from the observer, however, and if thunder is heard at all, it always occurs after the flash is seen, the interval of time between the two being greater in proportion to the distance at which the flash took place. This is because the speed of light is so great (186,330 miles per second) that the flash is seen practically at the same instant it occurs, whereas the speed of sound is not very great, around 1,100 feet per second.

Grange Notes

The Grange will have their bake contest and sale at their hall Saturday, Sept. 9. The baking contest is open to the men as well as the ladies. Come on you men and see what you can bake, and win a prize! Bread, quick bread, cakes (white and chocolate), cookies (white and dark), hermits, apple and cherry pie are on the list this year. Come on ladies and enter your goods.

There will be baked goods, candy, vegetables and fruit, and fancy work. Also flowers will be shown.

We especially want the farmers to bring in their best farm produce, tall corn, potatoes, in fact anything worth showing. No matter whether you are a Granger or not, we will be glad to exhibit anything that is brought to us. We would like to have everything in Friday afternoon. If it is not possible, early Saturday morning as we expect to have everything ready at noon.

Other counties have fairs and show what they can raise, and why can't Crawford county do so. If the people will help us we will put on as good an exhibit as others do, but we can't do it alone. Come on you farmers, or any one else who has something worth bringing in.

The members should all come to meeting Saturday night.

FEW CITIES EXEMPT FROM PARALLEL PARKING

Lansing, Aug. 28—Enforcement of the new parallel parking law scheduled to become effective September 29 will be impossible in certain cases it was decided this week.

This conclusion was arrived at by State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander and State Highway Commissioner Murray D. Van Wagoner at a conference in Lansing with H. A. Olson, secretary of the Michigan Municipal League. The two commissioners have jurisdiction over the state highway system on which the law would be effective. The law specifically provides that cars on trunkline streets must be parked with right wheels parallel to and not more than 12 inches from curbs.

Olson pointed out instances in which enforcement was precluded by physical difficulties. He mentioned Fenton as an example where curbs are so high car doors cannot be opened when automobiles are parked parallel.

Olander and Van Wagoner said they would give each case separate consideration. The law does not provide for the exercise of any discretion in its application by the two commissioners.

Derivation of Name Clara

The name "Clara" is a form of "Clare," a name probably derived from St. Clare, a popular saint in England, a friend of St. Francis, and foundress of the Roman Catholic order of St. Clare, the nuns of which are often called "Poor Clares." The name appears in many medieval calendars. It is probably derived from the Latin "clarus" (bright star).

Many Register At Hartwick Pines

Seven miles northeast of Grayling lies the vast acreage known as the Hartwick Pines State Park. It consists of 8,636 acres, of which 85 acres setting in the center of the park, is virgin timber.

The land was given to the State of Michigan by Mrs. E. Hartwick in 1927 in the presence of Governor Green and Conservation officials.

In June, 1935, the Park was officially dedicated and opened to the public by the late Governor Frank Fitzgerald.

This site is the mecca of many tourists from all over the country and foreign nations.

In 1938 the State, in cooperation with the Recreation Division of the Works Progress Administration, established a guide service in the park. The function or purpose of this program was to furnish to the public the much demanded information concerning the history of the Park, variety of pine and means of identification, uses of equipment in logging camp and habits of Fishing shares the spotlight with swimming and bathing as Michigan's leading summer sport. Photo (upper left) shows Betty Grunden with a fine string of perch caught in Tawas Bay. Perch fishing in Saginaw Bay and along the shores of Lake Huron has been the best in many years.

Michigan's Leading Summer Amusements

A recent survey revealed that the favorite amusement at the Bay City State Park is swimming. The smiling brothers (lower left) are typical of the thousands of youngsters who enjoy the invigorating experience of a cool dip in Michigan's most popular state park.

Once considered a sport only for oldsters, a shuffle board (upper right) has recently become a favorite pastime with the younger set.

Perhaps Michigan's most rapidly growing sport, shuffle board is now available at nearly all of the resort hotels and larger cottage and cabin colonies. The Harrisville State Park has installed courts this year and plans are underway to extend this sport to several of the other parks. Shuffle board is a community project in other recreational centers such as Indian River where the Resort Section Chamber of Commerce has installed new courts near their attractive information office. The above photo was taken at Barnes' Cottage on Eight Point Lake in Clare County. The youthful participants are (left to right) Clara Burdo, Cleland Green and Florence Hales—all of Clare.

More than ever, canoe trips interest Michigan visitors. The picture (upper right) was taken of the Leaning Pine during a canoe trip down the Au Sable near Grayling. Grayling is the center for many canoe caravans and fishing excursions. Other enjoyable expeditions can be made down the Au Sable from Mio and at other points. The Rifle River is coming into prominence for its scenic trips as well as the chain of lakes and rivers in Cheboygan County.

The vanishing horse is staging a comeback in Michigan's recreational areas. People from the city accustomed to the nerve-racking pace of the automobile have sought a change while on their vacation. The center photo shows a group of Michigan visitors cooling off their horses in Houghton Lake.
